

Under the Curriculum for Excellence all teachers are responsible for literacy. 10% of the school population is thought to be dyslexic but many teachers are still uncertain how to best support their students.

- ▶ Teachers can build on their skills by understanding what dyslexia is and just as importantly what it is not.
- ▶ Simple techniques and strategies can help a student thrive in an environment which could otherwise affect their learning, their morale and their well-being.

Dyslexia Scotland can help you by providing individually tailored sessions.

Built around your requirements, we can spend a half-day or a full-day giving your staff training, advice and knowledge about how to support your dyslexic students. If you need a shorter session, no problem, just ask more about that option.

Costs for this service are as follows:

Per half day: £300 plus travelling expenses

Per day: £500 plus travelling expenses
